Impure Blood

Impure blood will always make you sick. You suffer from headache, great depression, indigestion, sleeplessness, a bad skin, extreme exhaustion, and you can hardly drag yourself about.

Read what Mr. H. J. Matthews, of Wellington, New Zealand, says about this. He also sends his photograph.
"I have suffered a great deal from impure blood, especially from boils on my arms and back. I felt weak all over and was greatly depressed. I began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After taking only a little of it I felt better and soon my troubles disappeared. I believe this medicine is the best blood purifier and the strongest tonic that any one can buy."

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

There are many imitations "Sarsaparillas." Be sure you get Ayer's.

Take Ayer's Pills every time your bowels become constipated, or when you are bilious or have sick headache. They cure quickly.

W. H. CORNWELL DEAD.

Old Timer Dies at Waikapu After Short Illness.

Honolulu, Nov. 26.—The very sad news of the death of Col. W. H. Cornwell at his home in Waikapu this morning came by wireless shortly after the event and being spread about town, acted as a severe shock to the many friends of the deceased in Honolulu. The following special message from the Bulletin's correspondent on Maui, was received at the noon hour:

"Colonel Cornwell died at Waikapu at 8 o'clock this morning after a few hours' illness. Wife and son at the deathbed. Funeral probably tomorrow."

Deceased was the manager of what was the Waikapu Plantation, on the Island of Maui, in which he was largely interested. He may correctly be referred to as one of the most popular men in the country, a reputation well deserved. He was unusually well endowed with those many excellent qualities of mind and heart which command the esteem, respect and friendship of all, whether in business or social affairs. The same remark will apply to W. H. Cornwell's father, who was himself a sugar planter of many years standing, and highly respected throughout the Islands.

The magnificently situated and highly productive Waikapu plantation was one of the oldest in the Hawaiian group. It was first started in 1861, though the first sugar cane there grown was planted by James Louzada, an uncle of the deceased through whose instrumentality Mr. Cornwell became a resident of Hawaii. The plantation embraced 7,000 acres, a large portion of which was devoted to stockraising. A roller process mill was in use, of capacity proportionate to the needs of the plantation, in the ownership of which Manager Cornwell was associated with Geo. W. Macfarlane and the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Company.

In addition to his interest in the plantation referred to, Mr. Cornwell has a large cattle ranch of 20,000 acres which furnishes pasturage for about 1200 head of stock.

The life of the deceased was essentially passed amid the cane fields, as from a boy of twelve he lived upon the Waikapu plantation. He was raised there and grown up in the business with which he had been associated as man and boy. It is natural therefore that he should have been expert in every branch.

The father of the deceased came to the Hawaiian Islands in 1856, being advised by Mr. Louzada, before mentioned, of the opportunities here presented for successful cane growing and sugar making.

He was then twelve years of age, having born in 1844 and first went with his father to the Island of Hawaii, where the latter entered into stock raising, and there remained until 1859.

His next move was to Hanalei, Kauai, where one year was spent, and in 1861 he finally settled on the island of Maui where the elder Mr. Cornwell established the Waikapu plantation, and which, with the exception of occasional trips abroad, has since continually been his home. He there thoroughly learned the ins and out of the sugar business, in the meantime having the advantage of a good education, and upon the death of his father, which occurred in 1887, he assumed the exclusive management of the fields, mill and appurtenances.

While yet a boy Mr. Cornwell met and formed the acquaintance of the late King Kalakaua, and a friendship sprang up between them which continued to increase until the latter's death. Many a time and oft was the late King regally entertained at the handsome Cornwell residence in Waikapu, whose spacious halls have rung with sounds of merriment and conviviality in honor of the royal guest.

Mr. Cornwell's first entry into the field of politics was in 1887, during the Revolution. He had the year previous been appointed to the King's staff, and during the exciting events which followed remained loyal to his royal patron. Upon the death of Kalakaua, Mr. Cornwell was reappointed by Queen

Liliuokalani to her staff, when it was formed. He later on became its Colonel. In 1890 he was elected a noble in the Legislature for the four years' term. He was by no means partial to politics and accepted the position only on the urgent importunities of his many friends.

Mr. Cornwell's tastes ran strongly towards horsemanship. He was a thorough horseman, and an excellent judge and an ardent lover of horses. He took a great interest in racing events and was wont to have a well-stocked stable in Honolulu during the season. In his stables at Waikapu could always be seen the finest specimens of horseflesh to be found in the islands.

W. H. Cornwell married, in 1870, Miss Macfarlane, a sister of Col. Geo. W. Macfarlane. He leaves a family of three children—two daughters and a son—the latter a young man now on Maui. Mr. Cornwell was a member of the Privy Council of State, and was among the first to be appointed to that position by Her Majesty Queen Liliuokalani. He was also a Knight Commander of the Order of Kalakaua, a Knight Commander in the Order of Kapiolani, and wore the same decoration in the Order of Star of Oceania.

Mr. Cornwell was by nature a man of free, liberal, and generous proclivities. Hospitable and kindly, he was a lover of the good things of life, and was willing that others should be happy in the same privilege. He was universally popular, and had an extensive circle of friends.

Not very long since, deceased married a Mrs. Colvin and together they took a trip abroad. Mrs. Cornwell was with her husband on Maui at the time of his death.

Mr. Cornwell was for many years a sufferer from heart disease and although appearing very well when seen about among his friends, he nevertheless suffered intense agony at times.

In addition to the bereaved widow and his son on Maui there survive him his two daughters—Mrs. John S. Walker and Mrs. A. A. Braymer—both of this city. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Widdifield and Mrs. Vida, both of Honolulu. Another sister, Mrs. Friel, was burned to death in the mysterious fire that took place at the Friel home over a year ago.

The body of the late Col. W. H. Cornwell will be brought up from Maui in the Mauna Loa on Friday, accompanied by the widow and son. The exact date of the funeral has not been fixed. Sunday will probably be chosen. The deceased being a member of Hawaiian Lodge, No. 21, the services will be Masonic, the funeral to take place from the Masonic Temple, corner of Hotel and Alakea streets.

Windsor Castle, Nov. 17.—The King and Queen of Italy were welcomed to England today by King Edward and Queen Alexandra.

HOARSENESS IN A CHILD that is subject to croup, is a sure indication of the approach of the disease. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack. It always cures and cures quickly. The Hilo Drug Store sells it.
